

The Hertfordshire MBA

Toby Stoddart

International Product Manager, Bio Products Laboratory Ltd.

I chose the University of Hertfordshire to conduct my MBA for a number of reasons. The MBA has helped me broaden my understanding of business management and has allowed me to develop the skills I will need as my career progresses. So far, the course has given me a much greater appreciation of the different functions that make up an organisation.

When comparing MBA courses, the University of Hertfordshire had some key advantages. Some Part Time MBA's are centred on individual distance learning, for me, learning each module over a number of three day weekends that include things like lectures, off site group meetings, team discussions and online resources make up an effective way to understand the content of each module.

Being able to interact with people on the course from private, public and charity organisations really helps to validate what I learn individually and helps to develop my understanding of sectors that I am not familiar with. The excellent lecturers and substantial Learning Resource Centre (LRC) in Hatfield also make up the reasons why I chose to do the MBA at the University of Hertfordshire.

Before starting the MBA, I was a bit concerned at how I would balance everything in my professional and personal life, I can tell you however, if you commit to it, you will be applying the skills and knowledge you gain within days of your first module.
