LGBT DEBATE: MINORITY WITHIN A MINORITY

Join a panel of Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender (LGBT) champions to discover the challenges and opportunities minority groups face within the LGBT community when they manage multiple identities.

BOOK YOUR FREE TICKET AT WWW.EVENTBRITE.CO.UK

THE SPEAKERS

Naima Khan, volunteer for The Inclusive Mosque Initiative, a voluntary organisation who promote inclusive Islamic practice. The mosque aims to provide a peaceful, enriching environment for worship and remembrance of Allah which is an inclusive sacred space that welcomes all people.

Julie Newman, trustee of Regard, the national LGBT disabled people’s organisation and Acting Chair of the UK Disabled People’s Council. She was one of the first nationally elected disabled lesbians within the trade union movement, working across the fields of disability, sexuality & gender.

Marcus Morgan, leader of the UK activist group "The Bisexual Index", who has also been involved in the running of many bi events and organisations. He has written for UK newspapers and magazines and has appeared on TV and radio championing bi issues.

Katharine Collins, Project Coordinator for LGBT Carers Project. The project aims to give LGBT carers the support they need and are entitled to by offering regular workshops, talks and social events.

The Very Reverend Jeffrey John, Church of England priest and the current Dean of St Albans. Nominated to be a Church of England bishop in 2003, he is one of Britain’s most senior openly homosexual clerics who speaks candidly about God being in favour of same-sex marriage.

Jezza Donovan, representative for Gendered Intelligence, a Community Interest Company who work with the trans community. Jezza identifies as gender fluid and uses ‘they’ pronouns.

22 February 13:15-16:30, University of Hertfordshire, A154 Lindop Building, College Lane Campus, Hatfield, Hertfordshire, AL10 9AB