PART ONE: INTRODUCTION

1. Legal Requirement

Adopting a publication scheme is a requirement of the Freedom of Information Act 2000. This Act promotes greater openness and accountability across the public sector by requiring all 'public authorities' to make information proactively available through a publication scheme.

Public Authorities are defined in the Act and include universities, further education colleges and sixth form colleges

2. What is a publication scheme?

Every public authority is required to adopt and maintain a publication scheme setting out the classes of information it holds, the manner in which it makes the information available, and whether a charge applies. The purpose of a scheme is to ensure a significant amount of information is available, without the need for a specific request. Schemes are intended to encourage organisations to publish more information pro-actively and to develop a greater culture of openness.

3. The model publication scheme for higher education

The University of Hertfordshire has adopted the model publication scheme developed by the Information Commissioner's Office for the Higher Education sector and is therefore committed to publishing the information it describes. This publication scheme came into effect on 1st January 2009.

4. The University of Hertfordshire

The University of Hertfordshire (the 'University') is an ambitious and entrepreneurial University. It offers excellence in teaching, learning and research and puts students at the heart of its activities. It is a model of a 21st Century University, international, business-facing and business-like in approach - making it distinctive in an ever-changing higher education environment.

The University of Hertfordshire is one of its region's largest employers with over 2,700 staff and a turnover of more than £205 million. With a student community of over 23,000, including more than 2,000 international students from over 85 different countries, the University has a global network of over 160,000 alumni. For more information, please visit <http://www.herts.ac.uk/>

The University aims to be as open as possible in all its business and to share information about its activities.

5. Accessing information in the publication scheme

The publication scheme is available as a downloadable pdf and a printed document. Copies of the printed version are available upon request from the Records Management section (contact details below).

The Scheme indicates the format in which the information is available. The majority of the information in the Scheme is available via a web link or on request, either electronically or as a paper document, using the email or postal address below. Please mark all requests with "FREEDOM OF INFORMATION – PUBLICATION SCHEME REQUEST" so they can be processed as quickly as possible.

The information listed in this scheme is available free of charge unless otherwise stated. Multiple copies may be charged for depending on volume. Any charges will be identified to the requester prior to information being sent.

The information contained in the Scheme is divided into broad classes that are easy to understand, allowing easier and quicker access to the required information.

6. Information not included in the publication scheme

With effect from 1st January 2005 members of the public have the right, under the Freedom of Information Act 2000, to request access to any information held by the University which it has not already made available through its publication scheme.

On receipt of a written request, the University's obligations under the Act will be met by informing any enquirer whether it holds the information in question and if it does, subject to exemptions, by supplying that information to the enquirer, or making arrangements for the enquirer to inspect the information, within 20 working days.

The University will not release information if it is found to be covered by one of the 23 absolute or qualified exemptions. The University has to carry out a public interest test where a qualified exemption is concerned and must communicate the justification for exempting the information to the requester. Examples of possible exempt information include personal information (including members of staff, students or research subjects) the processing of which is covered by the UK General Data Protection Regulation UK GDPR) and the Data Protection Act (DPA) 2018; information that might prejudice the University's commercial interests; or that which would hinder the free and frank exchange of views for the purposes of policy or decision-making. For the latter, the decision to exempt information from release must be made by the Vice-Chancellor in his role as monitoring officer.

7. Feedback and review of the publication scheme

The University will review the Scheme on a regular basis. Following each review, it is expected that new information will be added to the list of current classes. Anybody who is unable to find any information listed or who would like to feed back on the scheme should contact the University. All views will be considered during the review process as a means of improving access to information within the scheme.

8. Contacts
