

Stephanie Alexander
Graduate Engineer at Robert Bosch Ltd.

Stephanie Alexander was a former student at the University of Hertfordshire (2010-2014), who studied for a BSc in Motorsport Technology and has achieved Engineering Technician (EngTech) status.

After finishing her degree, she went on to join the Graduate Specialist Programme with Robert Bosch Ltd., where she has gained further experience in quality engineering and diesel systems.

Currently, Stephanie is a member of IET and has represented young female engineers in engineering debates at the House of Lords and engineering talks in secondary schools in North London. She is also working towards achieving Incorporated Engineer (IEng) status.