INTRODUCTION

1.1 These policies and procedures have been approved by the Board of Governors.

1.2 Professorships are conferred on the authority of the Board of Governors.

DEFINITIONS AND GENERAL INFORMATION

2.1 Professor

2.1.1 The title of 'Professor' is conferred in recognition of an individual's academic distinction and, where appropriate, contribution to the work of the University. It is a personal chair rather than a functional chair, carrying defined organisational duties. The title is, therefore, conferred in recognition of research or professional achievements of national and international renown.

2.1.2 The salary will be at least at the level of Academic Manager.

2.1.3 Internal or external appointments may be made in relation to the award of the title.

2.1.4 The title is permanent during the employment by the University of the individual concerned (Section 2.1.5, refers).

2.1.5 The University's conferment of the title 'Professor' will be withdrawn automatically upon termination of the holder's employment with the University of Hertfordshire. At the absolute discretion of the Board of Governors, the title may be removed by the Board of Governors in the event of the holder's incapacity (UPR HR02, refers) or where misconduct on the part of the holder has been proven (UPR HR02, refers) (section 10, refers).

2.1.6 Where appropriate:

i. externally funded chairs may be awarded following public advertisement;

ii. certain established posts may be advertised with the possibility of the successful applicant being awarded a professorial title.

2.1.7 All senior academic posts advertised either internally or externally will include in the published advertisement information concerning the possibility of the successful applicant being awarded a Professorship.

(Sections 6.1, refers.)

2.2 Visiting Professor

2.2.1 The title of 'Visiting Professor' may be conferred on a distinguished person who is not a member of staff but who satisfies the criteria for a University of Hertfordshire Professorship and who normally has a regular commitment to the University's academic activities. The title will normally be awarded for an identified period of time.

2.2.2 The title may be conferred on a distinguished Consultant or General Practitioner who has a background of academic achievement and renown consistent with the criteria for a University of Hertfordshire Professorship and who is a significant contributor to the activities of the Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire Postgraduate Medical School.

2.2.3 The title is conferred at the absolute discretion of the Board of Governors which reserves the right to withdraw the title at any time.

(Section 8, refers.)

2.3 Professor Emeritus

2.3.1 The title of 'Professor Emeritus' can be conferred on a member of staff who retires after having held the title of 'Professor' whilst employed at the University for a period of at least three (3) years prior to retirement and who is deemed to have served the institution with particular distinction.

2.3.2 The title is conferred at the absolute discretion of the Board of Governors which reserves the right to withdraw the title at any time.

(Section 9, refers.)

2.4 Externally sponsored Professor

2.4.1 This title may be given to an individual who satisfies the criteria for a University of Hertfordshire Professorship but whose post is funded by an external body. An externally sponsored Professor may be expected to meet some requirements of the sponsoring body which are additional to those of the University. The name of the funding body may be used in conjunction with the professorial title.

2.4.2 The University’s conferment of the title ‘Professor’ will be withdrawn automatically upon termination of the holder’s employment with the University of Hertfordshire. At the absolute discretion of the Board of Governors, the title may be removed by the Board of Governors in the event of the holder’s incapacity (UPR HR02, refers) or where misconduct on the part of the holder has been proven (UPR HR02, refers) (section 10, refers).

(Section 6.5, refers.)

3 PURPOSE OF PROFESSORSHIPS

The purpose of Professorships is:

i to encourage recognition within the University of the academic excellence achieved by individuals, thus providing an additional focus for aspiration;

ii to demonstrate to individuals and organisations outside the University the achievement by individuals of academic excellence of national quality and thus to support such individuals in seeking the rewards of national and international standing;

iii to demonstrate externally the high academic achievements of the University and thus to enhance its standing in the eyes of schools, colleges, prospective applicants, industry, business, commerce, the public sector and the community at large;

iv to attract to the University staff of high academic ability, including those awarded the title of 'Visiting Professor' or those filling posts funded externally.
4 CRITERIA FOR THE CONFERMENT OF A PROFESSORIAL TITLE

4.1 The title of ‘Professor’ recognises proven achievement. It is not a recognition of potential. Candidates will be required to demonstrate their achievements in terms of a proven record of distinction as a scholar, teacher, business person, entrepreneur, consultant or practitioner in one or more of the following:

i contribution by research, entrepreneurship, business endeavours, consultancy, original work in the creative arts or professional practice to the furtherance of knowledge, advancements of the subject or their application to society;

ii standing in the subject or profession;

iii academic leadership.

It is not expected that in any particular case all of these criteria will apply - or apply equally.

4.2 In interpreting the above criteria, the Professorial Conferment Committee of the Board of Governors has determined that:

i in the context of Professorial applications, ‘distinction’ implies a standing that would be recognised on a national or international canvas by those in the same discipline, profession or in the broader field of education;

ii the University would wish to give as much weight to the skills and achievement of scholars, teachers, entrepreneurs, business people, consultants and practitioners as to those of more traditional scholars and researchers;

iii the criteria adopted by the University are intended to demand a level of achievement no less that that traditionally expected within British universities, although the nature of the achievement need not be confined to those activities traditionally recognised by professorial title and will reflect the vision and mission of the University.

4.3 As regards applications which it judges to be based on the above criteria, the Professorial Conferment Committee shall establish that the candidate is recognised by his or her peers as standing pre-eminent as a scholar, teacher, entrepreneur, business person, consultant or practitioner in a defined field and enjoys a national or international reputation beyond that reasonably expected of an able and productive Reader. The standing of such applicants will normally be reflected, as appropriate, to the discipline and/or profession in a distinctive portfolio of works and evidence of standing secured from eminent peer external assessors and referees.

5 THE UNIVERSITY OF HERTFORDSHIRE PROFESSOR – ROLE DEFINITION

5.1 Professors at the University of Hertfordshire are defined by reference to their distinction, standing and leadership in their subject and/or practice. The following framework provides a means of describing the range of activities that may be expected of a Professor. These expectations build upon those of a Reader.

5.2 The primary purpose of the professorial role is to provide academic leadership. University of Hertfordshire Professors will help to maintain and enhance the University’s reputation for research and scholarship, teaching and learning, entrepreneurship, business engagements, consultancy, original work in the creative arts and practice through their contribution to collective endeavours and through their own original work.

5.3 Together with other senior colleagues, University of Hertfordshire Professors are expected to play a significant part in the development of strategy and policies relating to research, entrepreneurship, business links, consultancy, original work in the creative arts and/or professional practice. They will be expected to contribute to governance and assist colleagues in realising their potential as scholars, teachers, business people, entrepreneurs, consultants and/or practitioners. University of Hertfordshire Professors will be academic leaders of repute. Visiting Professors will be expected to make a material contribution to their host area.

5.4 The range of activities expected of a University of Hertfordshire Professor may be expressed under the following headings (5.4.1 – 5.4.4).

5.4.1 Undertaking novel enquiry and disseminating new knowledge and/or advances in practice

University of Hertfordshire Professors will be national leaders, usually with an established or developing international profile, where appropriate. On appointment they will have achieved distinction through a substantial record of peer-esteemed outputs in their subject and/or made equivalent contributions to entrepreneurship, consultancy and/or the development of professional practice. They will be expected to further develop this record and to contribute significantly to advancing their standing and the reputation of the University. Undertaking novel enquiry will be characterised by:

i national/international communication of outputs in their subject/practice through peer-esteemed channels;

ii scholarly activity that involves leading and managing projects;

iii external peer review and/or consultancy.

5.4.2 Leading projects, teams and/or scholarly communities

University of Hertfordshire Professors will contribute to the leadership and management of research, entrepreneurship, business engagements, consultancy, original work in the creative arts and/or professional practice at the University. All Professors will be expected to secure levels of external funding and to operate internationally as appropriate to the discipline. They will demonstrate a preparedness to assume significant levels of responsibility in relation to the scholarly activities of the University. Activities may include:

i securing prestigious research and/or consultancy and/or business contracts;

ii seeking out and responding to funding and collaborative opportunities;

iii leadership and management;

iv mentoring and coaching of colleagues;

v supervising PhD and/or professional doctorate students;

vi undertaking the role of leader in their particular subject and/or research and/or business area;

vii line management of staff including a lead role in development and appraisal.

5.4.3 Teaching, learning and professional practice

University of Hertfordshire Professors will continue to contribute to the delivery of learning and teaching in their subject and will normally play a key role in curriculum development and management of research and/or entrepreneurship in the discipline. Specific responsibilities may include leadership of and responsibility for:

i teaching/supervising undergraduate, postgraduate, research, post-qualifying, continuous professional development students and/or delivering short courses whether credit-bearing or not;
ii curriculum and programme development;
iii contribution to professional/practitioner development;
iv project/dissertation supervision.

5.4.4 Subject advocacy, professional networks and knowledge exchange

University of Hertfordshire Professors will be expected to build and maintain collaborative relationships with colleagues within the University and with peers and leaders outside the University. In particular they will be expected to engage in:

i academic leadership and advocacy of their subject;
ii creation and leadership of partnerships across the University and with external organisations including a variety of funding agencies and sponsors;
iii knowledge and/or technology exchange, consultancy and entrepreneurial activities;
iv contributing to national/international fora, symposia, conferences and/or business, policy and practitioner networks in their subject;
v external examining or equivalent external review.

5.5 Illustrative contribution expected of a University of Hertfordshire Professor

The ‘expected contribution’ should be read in conjunction with the Professorial Criteria set out in section 4 where a balanced contribution is expected. A University of Hertfordshire Professor may focus in one or more areas.

ii where the candidate is not located within a School and the candidate’s Head of SBU is also the Pro Vice-Chancellor to whom the application would be referred for consideration at later stages in the conferment process (section 6.2, refers), in which case the application will be referred to another of the Pro Vice-Chancellors listed in the Note to section 6;
iii where the candidate is a Dean of School, in which case the Deputy Vice-Chancellor is required to undertake the actions assigned to Deans of School in these regulations.

6.1.3 The Dean of School/Head of SBU/Deputy Vice-Chancellor will exercise his or her professional/academic judgement and determine, at his or her sole discretion, whether he or she is content to support the application. In reaching this decision, the Dean of School/Head of SBU/Deputy Vice-Chancellor may take account of internal or external advice.

6.1.4 Where the Dean of School/Head of SBU/Deputy Vice-Chancellor determines that he or she will not support the application, he or she will inform the candidate in writing and confirm to him or her that the application will not be taken forward.

6.1.5 Where the Dean of School/Head of SBU/Deputy Vice-Chancellor supports the application, he or she will:

6.2.4 Internal candidates will be invited to attend for formal interview by a Professorial Conferment Committee.

6.2.5 Where a prima facie case has not been established, the Pro Vice-Chancellor will inform the candidate in writing. This letter will outline the reasons for the decision.

6.3 Application for a professorship associated with an advertised post

6.3.1 Internal or external candidates for a Professorship associated with an advertised establishment vacancy will be advised that the Appointment Panel for the post will be constituted in such a way that, if the successful candidate fulfils the University’s professorial criteria, then the Panel may award a professorial title to the successful candidate. However, it will be emphasised that fulfilment of the criteria is not a condition of appointment and will not be a factor in the selection process. Candidates will also be informed that the referees identified by them to support their application will be asked specifically to comment on the applicant’s suitability for a professorial appointment.

6.4.5 The Chairman of the Committee will ensure that the candidate is notified of the Committee’s decision in writing.
